Yorkshire and Humber regional international recruitment hub

Update on the international recruitment funded programme
To Care Providers and Care Alliances across Yorkshire and Humber

Introduction

In 2023/24, 105,000 migrant workers entered the UK being sponsored for employment in the Care Sector. Of these, around 8,000 are living in the Yorkshire and Humber region. We are privileged and grateful that these workers have chosen the UK to live in, and the Care Sector to offer their support and progress their careers. Feedback from both employers and those in recipient of care has been overwhelmingly positive, and that these workers offer high quality levels of care, commitment, and compassion. Despite this success, it is not all rosy and the sector, and those workers who have chosen to come and work with us, face a number of challenges.

Consultation on updated guideline to assess and prevent falls in older people

We're seeking views from health and care staff on our draft recommendations. One key proposal is that occupational therapists carry out home hazard assessments rather than other healthcare professionals. The evidence reviewed during guideline development indicated fewer falls with this approach.

The guideline also includes new recommendations for those in residential care and updated recommendations for hospital and community settings.

Updates from The Queen's Nursing Institute

Enabling Research in Care Homes

The Enabling Research In Care Homes (ENRICH) network supports care homes by increasing their understanding of what research is, why it's important, how they can benefit, and how to get involved.

ENRICH is part of the National Institute for Health and Care Research (NIHR), the largest funder of health and social care research in England.

ENRICH brings together care home staff, residents, families, and researchers. It provides resources to help care homes make the most of research and supports researchers in setting up and running studies effectively in care homes.

Social Care Nurse Research

Whilst there is a small but active social care nurse research community, there are disparities in research development opportunities compared to nurses working in the NHS. Consequently, there are few visible nurse research role models and mentors in social care nursing.

Read Dr Zena Aldridge's new blog to find out more about her role in improving opportunities for social care nurses to become more research active.
